Summary

I am a Full Stack Developer with a passion for creating scalable applications that solve real-world problems in a user-friendly and efficient manner. Skilled in utilising a variety of technologies to design, develop, and deploy full-featured web solutions. Committed to delivering high-quality results and continuously improving technical abilities.

Career history

Being a bit older I have worked in couple of industries over the years. As such I have developed a broad skillset that is applicable in any industry.
I am highly analytical, have excellent problem solving skills, and can effectively communicate and work with people at all levels. I have experience in project management, customer service, and operations. I am confident in my ability to quickly adapt to new environments and technologies, and am committed to ongoing learning and professional development.
